

Dear members

Greetings!!

As we finish this year with the last issue of the UP Journal of Ophthalmology, it gives me immense pleasure to say that Dr Shalini Mohan, the dynamic editor of this journal, has played a pivotal role in keeping the ophthalmologists of Uttar Pradesh abreast with the latest in ophthalmology with these journals. The continuity of the Journal with regular articles coming from our own members and from non members too is a great step towards promoting academics. Her efforts in making the submissions online need a lot of applause. Today UPSOS feels proud that the UP Journal of ophthalmology is also indexed and peer reviewed. This has generated more and more good articles in the journal. Ophthalmology today is going through a phase where several advancements are happening in every superspeciality, Upgradation of knowledge is most essential, and the information shared in the journal is authentic as well experience based and real world based. Dissemination of information based on the experience of a renowned ophthalmologist gives a chance to our members to understand the concepts better in a practical manner.

As a State society UPSOS is committed to imparting scientific knowledge. On behalf of the whole executive committee my Congratulations to the editor Dr Shalini Mohan and her team for their continued efforts on this front.

Happy reading !!

Dr. Mohita Sharma
